America in Position to Direct Climb from Depths of Chaos, Assertion.

Washington.—Assuming that there had been no political controversy in the United States, the Legionnaires of the World, Great Britain and America were approaching the European problem without any previous connection with it, there would still be room for the widest possible difference of opinion as to what American foreign policy should be in the present grave crisis in Europe.

Any one who has tried to form a judgment of what America should do will not have his mind cleared by a visit to Europe. The chances are he will find it even more confused. It's a good deal like trying to analyze a poker game without being able to look at the cards of any of the players. Most of the moves on the surface hardly reflect what is actually going on in America as a distinct part of the game as it was in any European country. There seems to be no way of disassociating the United States from the matter for the very substantial reason that ten billions of dollars of American money is involved. Granting that the United States will never consider cancellation of the war debt, the problem becomes even more acute for Europe finds the burden of that debt almost

Nation Must Uphold Ideals for Which Heroes Died, Says Legion Head.

Superior.—One of the greatest things the American Legion must do is to perpetuate the memory of the heroic deeds of American soldiers in the World War, declared Alvin Owsley, national commander, in his address to the conventions of the Wisconsin departments of the Legion and Legion auxiliary here today.

The Legion is profoundly interested in seeing that the histories of the United States are made true, he said. Too many have forgotten the war, he said, adding "the nation is proud of its heroes will always breed and produce heroes." Of the soldier dead he said:

"They cannot regret their deaths, unless we, after all is done, deny their blood and mock their deeds. Let us highly resolve that we will live for the things our comrades have died for."

Whether you agree with Senator Cummins in his analysis of the railroads or not it makes little difference. The articles now running in the Gazette will be informing. You know the railroad situation is one of the ever present topics of political discussion. Senator Cummins has written the best series so far printed. They are copyrighted for the Gazette.

PASTOR GRANTED RIGHT TO PREACH SANS COAT, COLLAR

Janesville, Ky.—When the Rev. E. L. Edens, pastor of the Baptist church here, went into his pulpit recently, pulled off his coat and collar in seeking relief from the heat and invited the male worshippers of his congregation to do likewise and preached his sermon thus negligee, he started something.

The congregation has split over the affair and Mr. Edens has won the first battle. Indignation had grown to such extent that two Sundays ago Ulysses S. Turner, one of Mr. Edens' flock, interrupted him during a sermon, whereupon Mr. Edens called for a vote on whether he or the parsoner was to preach. The pastor won and Turner led his faction from the church.

At a church meeting, Mr. Edens' resignation was considered and the membership voted 72 to 180, in favor of his remaining. He can now wear his coat and collar, or not, just as he desires.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE]

Washington—Resolutions passed by the Disabled American Veterans of the World War at their convention in St. Paul, Minn., on Aug. 11, ask the United States Veterans' Bureau to provide treatment "for disease and injury by other means than medicine or surgery," will be presented to Frank L. Hines, director of the bureau, by officers of the organization this week.

James A. McFarland, newly-elected national commander of the D. A. V.; H. H. Mulligan, Cook and Robert G. Miller, national commanders, will arrive here Wednesday for a three-day conference with Mr. Hines and other officers of the Veterans Bureau. They will present several resolutions designed to improve the treatment given disabled war veterans and adopted by the delegates who attended the Minneapolis meeting.

The resolution referring to treatment other than medicine and surgery reads as follows:

"That the Government recognize all effective methods of treatment that are clearly proven to be of value in treating disease and injury. That the method of treatment to be in accordance with the disposal of disabled veterans, thus enabling them to reach the goal of physical rehabilitation."

President Lewis claims there is no reason to give the miners for asking them to work after Aug. 31 without a new agreement. He says the miners have been ready to negotiate for months. It was only at the request and invitation of the miners that the meetings with the operators were arranged at Atlantic City.

This report seemed to throw another bone of contention into the negotiations. Both the miners and operators thought the report might be useful for propaganda purposes.

That is they thought each side could get out of the report something to back up its contention.

EXPECT BIG JUMP IN SALES OF GAS

Janesville Filling Stations Report Motorists Are Filling Tanks.

Unprecedented increase in sale of gasoline in Janesville is expected by dealers to result from the price slashing indulged in by nearly all in the city Tuesday after the Standard Oil company announced prices on their two grades had been cut 20 cents a gallon.

Although the order to cut gasoline prices was not received by the Standard Oil company in Janesville until 10 o'clock Tuesday morning, by evening prices for all kinds of gas sold in Janesville had been adjusted to meet the new low mark set by Standard. Some filling station dealers were hard hit, having had their tanks filled up the day or so before. They set in evidently on the price asked but all found that consumers would not purchase unless the price had been reduced.

MOTORISTS FILLING UP.

The Standard Oil company and the managers of the five independent oil companies operating in Janesville predicted that the next few days will show the strong increase in business which will be directly attributable to the cut in prices. L. W. Apfel, manager of the Standard Oil company, said their business in this city enjoyed a 10 per cent increase yesterday and several stations open Wednesday were kept constantly at work filling empty gas tanks. Mr. Apfel said tank wagon men reported farmers having their tanks filled up. Generally it is 25 or 20 gallons for each tank.

"They are taking advantage of the low price, not knowing how long it will continue, and getting as much as their tanks will hold," said Mr. Apfel. "The same is true of nearly every automobile. It's full it up, not four or five gallons."

Independent companies said that they did not expect an increase in business had been experienced at the new prices have not been in effect long enough, and some are not yet aware of the slash. One station reported that some automobile drivers ordered five gallons but when they heard of the price reduction changed the order to "fill it up."

PRICES FEEL AX.

Prices on all forms of medium and low test gasoline will feel the new survey Wednesday of companies and stations handling the various kinds of gasoline showed. Some had cut prices seven cents a gallon. The old and new prices of gas per gallon on the various companies is as follows:

Standard Oil—Low 16c, formerly 18c; High 18c, formerly 22c.

Waukesha—Low 16c, high,

Dexter Won't Suffer.

J. F. Adams of Milwaukee, special representative of the Wadham-Woodway company, said to the Gazette Wednesday, that the dealers would not be the losers in the price-cutting going on in the oil and gas business. "He may lose his profit on his gas now in tanks when the cut came but no more. The independent producers and refiners are the ones who will lose. Millions of gallons of gas had been produced and was stopped when suddenly California opened two new oilfields with a 60,000,000 barrel production added to the already large supply."

"The Pacific coast and the Orient could not absorb this large increase and, with water rate to New York and Boston much lower than from Tulsa to Milwaukee, the market was flooded with cheap oil. Refiners in New Orleans and other ports were able to buy cheap stocks of crude and send it north cheaper than heretofore by several cents. It caught the refiners with the millions of gallons of gas on hand, made from high priced crude, and to sell it at the price now established is to lose money."

Future at Stake.

"There was a gasoline war on 14 years ago and gas sold in Milwaukee for 5 cents a gallon. One thing on which the public may rest assured is that if the present gasoline war succeeds in knocking out the independent refiners the Standard could not have its own way and the public will pay the bill. In the end for all practical purposes new gasoline now has a large number of independent companies with which to deal. That is its protection against any possible monopoly in the manufacture and sale of gasoline. But the future of the gasoline business is at stake right now."

Wheeling the Baby Carriage.

Evidently not knowing the Gazette rules about communications sent to the paper—that the name of the writer whether used for publication or not —must accompany letters to the editor, a "Newcomer" has contributed the following:

"Sunday my husband and I walked down town and as we have a baby too small to walk we took him in his cab. On our way we were passed by several automobiles and the occupants of every car turned around for a second glance and smiled. We were in the habit of doing this quite frequently in Chicago and no one ever thought it strange.
We would like to know if it is considered a curiosity or a disgrace to push a baby cab
in Janesville."

Right away as to the last question, we want to assure "Newcomer" that it is neither a curiosity
nor a disgrace in Janesville to push a baby carriage and if the husband and wife are together the man need not feel that he is out of place in doing the pushing. Whenever we arrive at a point where we feel that it is strange and out of place to operate a perambulator in Janesville or any other place on the footstool of the Lord, we shall be in a bad way, indeed. There are some 19,000 persons in Janesville and it is quite safe to say that no one of them has reached any age without having been given a ride in a baby cart of some kind, sometime.

To "Newcomer" let us say that it is probable that, the baby they were giving a ride on Sunday
was undoubtedly more than ordinarily attractive. A baby in a carriage is still something more than a mere piece of baggage being transported. We all like to take a look at one. The baby sitting up in his vehicle is a lord of creation.
He is the future of the world in person, the hope of nations, the pride of parents and the subject of scientific study and thought. We wait for the child in the buggy. We build schools for him, costing millions of dollars, and get ready for the time when he will no longer need father's gentle hand on the steering bar at the back of the baby buggy. Oh, no, "Newcomer," far from being a disgrace or a curiosity, it is an honor to have a baby ahead of you running down the street and yours is the welcome here in Janesville. It is an hour of sorrow or despondency we may meet you and the baby, let us smile in response to the baby's laugh. There is no better cure for the blues, nothing that will put greater hope in the breast than that—baby sitting up in his cab. You have lightened a thousand hearts on your way down the street Sunday and perhaps, we believe so anyway, the smiles were responsive smiles to the baby laugh as he rode along the streets carrying cheer and pleasant thoughts to the riders in mere rattling automobiles.

Apparently two things are cheap in Tulsa—life
and gasoline.

Another Big Fair.

Reports from the entries of exhibits at the Green county fair indicate that the largest and most complete fair ever in the history of that county will be this one of 1923. Green county is one of the most forward and richest in production of the state. The cheese alone of the county has made it a world wide reputation. At the fair the exhibit of live stock and dairy herds have never been so good. Rock county is there in evidence too and Southern Wisconsin which was so well represented at the fair here in Janesville is again showing the world, at large, what the southern section of the state can do. We have had three record breaking fairs in the last three weeks—
the unprecedentedly good fair at Evansville, Janel-ville and now Monroe. These will be followed by the Walworth county fair which will crown the southern part of the state as a four time winner in agricultural exhibits and dairy farm livestock exposition.

On a hot day try this for cool comfort—clean out the furnace.

Saving Many Millions.

The scrapping of the two battleships, Indiana
and South Dakota, under the naval disarmament treaty is going ahead at the Brooklyn navy yard.
They would have cost $60,000,000 and though the entire sum will not be saved, since some work had been done on the skeleton of the ships, we will stop the competition that eventually would have added a billion or so of expense to the nation for defense. We will have a navy but not a great armament which only lasts a few years and the world has stopped the laying of keels of battleships and cruisers.

Tonight at midnight there will be forty persons dead from auto accidents. We are killing that number now each 24 hours. Yet people filled with booze will insist on driving machines. Also others will try to run ahead of locomotives and cars.

Every bootlegger who sells hooch to an auto driver ought to furnish directions to the nearest undertaker.

No matter how effective the police may be it cannot get results without the full cooperation of the courts and prosecuting officers. Kansas City

Washington.—Government economists and students of affairs at Washington have been searching for the underlying cause of the decided slump
in the stock market and many of them believe it to be the low price of wheat.

Nearly half of the population of the United States is made up of farmers, a large percentage of whom raise wheat. The price of wheat has been down around seventy and eighty cents a bushel. This is declared to be below the actual cost of production. The inevitable result is that the wheat-growing farmer will not only have no
surplus profits with which to repay his bank loans and make purchases but will be in the hole.

This means that his purchasing power in the markets of the country will be limited very largely to new loans and new loans are becoming increasingly difficult for the farmer to procure because already he is overburdened with debt and his credit is therefore impaired.

The men who run the stock market fix, in open dealing, the prices of commodities which, in turn, govern the prices of the stocks and bonds based on those commodities or the services of handling, transportation, merchandising, etc., allied with them. Realizing that the underlying purchasing power of the country will be weak because of the low price of wheat, the stock market has placed a lower valuation on the securities.

Meanwhile, the government, the farm organizations and the farmers themselves are engaged in attempting to discover the cause for the low wheat price and to devise means of remedying the situation. The causes discovered are various.

Two main facts stand out: the production of wheat is on the increase, while consumption has decreased.

It is not easy to lay a finger upon the causes of so intangible a movement but some seemingly fundamental considerations may be noted.

During the war four million Americans and many additional millions of other nationalities were enlisting in the armies. Experts planned food rations for those men. They were based on scientific data and adjusted to give precisely the right amount of nutrition, properly balanced.
Soldiers witness the fact that in most of the armies, no more food was given a soldier in a day than he was accustomed to consume at a single meal in civilian life. Yet the armies were uniformly more healthy than the men had been in civilian life.

To insure adequate food supplies for troops,
civilian consumption during the war was cut down
by government regulation. Following the armistice various regions of the world were subjected to conditions approaching famine. They were forced by circumstances to curtail their food consumption.

The conclusion seems to be that, perhaps subconsciously, the millions of men in the armies and the millions in the civilian populations came to realize that they had been consuming more food than was necessary to sustain life properly. They refined their habits of curtailed food consumption, alleviating some of the money they previously had expended for food to other uses.

Figures compiled by the American Institute of Meat Packers show that, despite the natural increase in population, meat consumption in the United States is no greater than it was five or six years ago. From five to ten millions more are living on the same quantity of food. No figures have been compiled on the reduction of per capita wheat consumption but the impression is general that consumption has fallen off.

These facts warn the American farmer as well as the farmer of every land that he must readjust
his whole conception of the volume of food products a given number of people will consume and caused by the accumulation of tartrate where the teeth join the gums. The gums become irritated and inflamed by disease, producing germs, the tissues are broken down and pus forms. Unless the pyorrhea sufferer is prompt in putting his case in the hands of a competent dentist the infection continues, rapidly dissolving the soft bones surrounding the teeth.

Q. What causes pyorrhea? C. A. RAKER.

Raker has had an interesting career. He was born on a farm near Knoxville, Knox Co., Ill., Feb. 2, 1863. When he was ten he moved to Lassen county, California, with his parents and worked his way through the public schools. He studied law while working in a law office, and, eventually, became a member of the firm Spencer and Raker. He gained a national fame as a lawyer when he sued an attorney for the defense in the famous Modoc Indian trial.

Twenty-one men were indicted on five separate murder charges. The trial lasted five months. All were discharged.

He served four years as district attorney of Modoc county, was twice elected judge of superior court for Modoc county and served as delegate to many state and national Democratic conventions.

He entered congress the first time as a representative for the sixty-seventh session and has served ever since. He was reelected to the sixty-seventh congress without opposition.

The Riddle of the Spinning Wheel

By M. E. and T. W. HANSHEW

Being an Exploit in the Career of Hamilton Cleek, Detective

Copyright, 1922, by Doubleday, Page & Co., and published by arrangement with McClure Newspapers Syndicate of New York City.

SYNOPSIS.

In deadly fear of the lives of her father and others in the Duggan home at Andrewville, said Duggan, who had fled from Scotland Yard, Hamilton Cleek, under the name of Deland, takes up the attempt to solve the mystery of the Spinning Wheel, while his son, a fellow of few words, and without a trace of human hands starts running. Invariably a death follows. The head of the house is old Braselton, Sir Andrew Duggan, his son by a first wife, a widow, and a second wife, a French woman and her son Cyril. It is believed that the wife is plotting for the death of all in order to inherit the estate. Cleek begins his investigation. He makes a number of acquaintances and finds that Ross, the eldest son, is an electrical expert. He has made himself at home with electricity and adding other modern innovations. It is believed that the second wife is attempting to have Ross dispossessed and her son Cyril made heir to the family gathering the place. Duggan is slain while seated in his chair in a moment when the lights go out. Maude Duggan tells Cleek, "Dad," about it.

"Amachoo detective or not," he apostrophized the absent gentleman, "an' queer in the top story though I may be, that's what I calls a right-down Lunnon gentleman!"

Tomatoe and Tomatoes—One pint boiling water, one teaspoon sugar, one and one-quarter teaspoon salt, one-quarter teaspoon pepper, small onion (chopped), one-third cup quick-cooking tapioca, one-half pound sliced American cheese, three slices small bread, one tablespoon butter or substitute. Combine the tomatoe water, onion and seasonings and cook gently for 15 minutes. Then stir in the tapioca and when the mixture thickens cool it over hot water until the butter is clear. Pour into a 20 minutes. Then oil a baking dish, lay a layer of the tapioca mixture, then one of cheese and a crumbled slice of the bread; continue in this way until all is used, making the last layer of bread, which should be crumpled very fine. Dot this with the butter and bake about 25 minutes in a moderate oven.

Prune Pudding—One cup cooked prunes, one cup sugar, one-eighth teaspoon lemon juice, one-eighth teaspoon cinnamon, one and one-third cups boiling water, one-third cup cornstarch. Add sugar, cinnamon and boiling water to cooked prunes, from which the seeds have been removed. Mix constantly until smooth, then stirring constantly. Cook directly over the fire until thick then place over hot water. Add lemon juice and continue to cook for 20 minutes. Stir in beaten white egg may be added. Serve with cream.

Minestrone With Meat—Place, after netting, two cups of cold macaroni in an oiled baking dish. Add with a well seasoned tomato sauce. Repeat until dish is full. Cover with buttered crumbs and bake until heated through and crumbs are browned.

SUGGESTIONS.

To mark your other china that is to be laid out on special occasions, apply small pieces of adhesive tape on which the name of the owner has been written in indeleble ink to the bottom of the dishes. This method of identification will not be noticed by the user.

Shiny Suit—When a woolen suit becomes shiny, wring a piece of cambric out of water and containing few drops of ammonia, and sponge the material. Press under a damp cloth. On heavy suiting the glossy appearance can be overcome by rubbing lightly with fine emery paper which may be obtained at the hardware store.

Things Worth Knowing—It is better to season meat after it is partially cooked.

A teaspoonful of salt thoroughly stirred into the basin of starch will add a splendid gloss to linens.

A weak solution of vinegar and water will remove finger marks from polished wood.

An excellent remedy for scratches on furniture is to rub the surface with a cloth saturated with a mixture of cream of tartar and oil of camphor.

A careful selection of herbs and positions for same will add a great deal of space to the small house.

"Motourists" Have Praise and Suggestions for Camp Provided by Janesville

FOOTVILLE

The call of the open road, beckoning all to come, has resulted in the touristic camp at Washington street being transformed each night into a tent city housing a cosmopolitan group of people who have responded to that call and have come journeying towards the beauty spots of Wisconsin. Life in the open appeals to many and Wisconsin, the playground of the middle west, is the rendezvous for a large portion of those who will find greatest pleasure in communing with nature.

Convincing proof that Janesville is on the route of many of those travelers, the largest part of them from other states, is an inspection of the tourist camp any night. Friday night there were 17 parties averaging three persons in a camp, who rested here on their journey up state or down bound for Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Iowa, Virginia, Indiana and Michigan were encamped in the shady grove. The night before there was a party from South Shore, South Dakota and another from Spokane, Washington. Census showed the largest number from one other camp from Chicago. Others from Illinois came from Quincy and Bloomington.

Camping Outfits Vary

There is as much variance in the camping outfit as the places from which the travelers hail. Most of those in camp Friday night, and the same will be true other nights, were housed in poled tents, but few using the platforms placed there to make camping more comfortable. Some came with their tents, others with the top of the automobile to save erecting stakes. Others have telescopes with one pole in the center.

Others use their ingenuity and make their own camping-outfits. E. B. Chase, Windsor, Mich., accompanied by his wife on a tour to the coast, doing business while they travel, in small touring car, constructed a special apparatus which was thrown over the top of the car, enclosed the back seat and had a compartment to one side. Traveling in real luxury is Mr. and Mrs. William J. Beckman whose home is anywhere. They live in a specially constructed 12-foot pullman mounted on the chassis of an old touring car which has been driven 50,000 miles. Mr. Beckman is a sign painter for the Thomas Cusack company of Chicago and they are living at the tourist camp while Mr. Beckman paints signs in this city and vicinity. The car carries a Virginia license, although the Beckmans come from St. Louis, Mo.

Home of Comfort

Systematic arrangement of the house on wheels the finest seen here, but not in comfort. The front seats of the car are reversed during the dinner hour revealing a collapsible table that disappears and becomes part of the wall panel. At one side is a clothes closet and the other the kitchenette. Meals are cooked on two burner gasoline stove, sleeping quarters are at the rear of the car. It is especially constructed on automobile springs. On all sides of the wall are compartments for various articles and there is a special place for everything. The interior is finished in red cherry. Mr. and Mrs. Beckman have been in Janesville, George, Alberta, Montana, Tennessee, and many other states during the past year.

Not one of the parties at the camp used the fireplace to cook their food. All carry some type of oil stove, either gasoline or kerosene. Only experienced campers have a systematic arrangement for their camping equipment.

Dolls, Big Attraction

No camper passes through Wisconsin without visiting the Dolls Devil's Lake attracts many tourists visiting Baraboo and they go to the Devils Lake. Wisconsin is the ultimate objective of nearly all the tourists, the extent of their tour depending upon the time they have for their vacation.

Some of the parties are on trans-continental tours. A party from Spokane was enroute to Dayton, O., when the men found work at the Chevrolet and became a Janesville residents. Marie, Violet and Dean Hall of Bloomington, Ill., had been 2,000 miles out in Minnesota and Iowa and were going home.

Most of the tourists voluntarily spend their praise of the Badger state and its people. The treatment accorded them in Wisconsin and the wonderful highway marking system impress them most next to the beauty of the state.

Wisconsin at Relief

"It's a relief after living down in Chicago where you are impressed with the fact that everyone you meet is out to get you and it's a case of getting him to get you, to come up into Wisconsin and meet real people who do things for you because they like to and only want a word of appreciation," said F. A. Tatmer, Chicago. "We spent four days at Wisconsin Lake resorts because the people there made us like it so we wanted to see what attracted us. Everyone has been courteous. People go out of their way to give you information and help you. In Chicago they bite your head off. It's good to get away for a week and find some human beings."

The Janesville tourist camp is not without its surprises. Tourists are enthused with the unusual spot the city has chosen as entrance of visitors. They are not without suggestions for improvement. The most evident need from the point of the tourists is a sanitary toilet. A little store selling staples and which might be run by someone who would act as custodian of the grounds to maintain order and a check on those who use the camp is another need, Mr. Beckman said. What the tourists miss most of all is a book in which to register. One tourist said Janesville was the first place he had stopped where they did not have a register.

Camp Paying Proposition

That an attractive tourist camp is a paying proposition from a cold business standpoint is proven by talks with tourists on the amount of money they spend in town. Nearly everyone buys oil and gas which ranges from $1 to $5. It is necessary to eat which costs from $1 to $2 per person spending $1 to $5 for groceries, eggs, butter, milk and other food. One tourist told the Gazette that Fond du Lac estimated its tourist camp last year brought $38,000 into the city.

The camp is now being kept in a fair sanitary condition. Tourists do not blame other cities for the lack of regard for the condition of the camp. One tourist from Chicago who had made camp had cleaned up the spot and burned the rubbish left by someone else. Maps of Janesville have been placed in the bulletin board erected on Washington street in the center of the tourist camp.

One thing is certain: Wisconsin is fast becoming the greatest magnet for the pleasure-seeking people of America and Janesville by its attention to them has an opportunity to gain nation wide publicity of great

Busy Man's Sport Page

By FRANK SINCLAIR

THE WISCONSIN river valley started a baseball league in the spring. The Merrill "Daily Herald" says that practically every club is broke and unable to pay its bills and lays it to too high a salary list, and adds: "If another team has a pretty good man that you want, make a trip in the night to a neighboring town and offer a Prince's ransom for a player, giving no thought of the meadow larks, the money will come in fast. This is one great trouble. Go crazy with a check book when you have the coin and cry when the money is gone. There is nothing wrong about borrowing my played now and then but this crazy salary list of all the towns the betting is putting the game on the turn."

"THE NEXT great trouble lies with the fans, not all of them, but with too large a portion and that is those who think they must bet on a game and if they lose there is an awful squawk. They weep for the days that are gone and cry for the players who used to be on the team. Gambling on the game is doing as much or more than anything else to ruin baseball in the small town."

COMPARE this with the southern Wisconsin league. There has been no going up to the world and hiring men because a team happens to be down. There was no chance and the club managers did not want any, for they had seen too often in their experience how such a thing broke up leagues, busted teams and lost prestige. Every town has had the same opportunity. The result is that both confined players in the towns where representation who have lived in those towns since early January. One man went up to one town with the idea of getting a soft berth, but found he was just two months late in arriving and found no suckers. There has been no real boost since the start of the season of winning and as a result with good attendance due to good competition, teams have been a financial success instead of an asset. There are now but three games remaining on the schedule, yet the race for second, third and fourth positions—out of a total of six—is still keen and will be for yet another week.

The loss of some of the best men on last year's squad, including H. E. Williams, at half, E. H. Gibson, Jim Morrison, and Shorty Hart at quarterback, a large hole is to be filled. ## Ryan Will Handle Backs in Badger Grid Training

MADISON—The coaching staff of the University of Wisconsin football squad for the coming fall has been virtually completed, and little more than a month remains before the real work of the season begins.

Headed by Jack Ryan, newly elected head coach; Jim Brader, right tackle on the season's team; with Barney Trainor, center and captain of last year's Colgate team; Guy Lohman, former athletic director; Earl S. (Keg) Dulver, and probably Gus Dabell will join the staff.

Tebell, an end on last year's team and one of the best ever developed at Wisconsin may not be present.

Ryan is Conservative.

Coach Ryan refuses to paint a rosy picture for the coming season, declaring that with a new system in effect, and the squad beginning at the bottom, it will be difficult to bring the team to a point where it can be expected to win the majority of its games.

The development of freshmen teams will continue with the youngsters this year, and believe material of exceptional strength will register.

Guy Lohman's outfit of all-American players will be not eligible for the first squad is expected to be as efficient as ever. His team last year gave the first string men some of the hardest opposition encountered throughout the season.

Trainor, Braden, and Tebell, if he comes, will have charge of the work of the line men. All three understand every department of line play. At quarterback, a large hole is to be filled. While declaring that the backfield material is good, Coach Ryan feels the men will have to perform in wonderful style to develop to a point where they can overcome the advantage of the majority of the other conference teams, due to the other organization under which they will work.

The development of a backfield will be left to Ryan, whose work at Marquette, university, Milwaukee, and St. Thomas college, St. Paul, indicates his ability to make a backfield out of material not composed of stars.

THE JANESEVILLE DAILY GAZETTE

MIDWEST KLAN IN ROCKFORD, SEPT. 730,000 Members Expected at Official Pageant Next Month.

Rockford, Ill.—Rockford will be host to 30,000 Klansmen who will participate in an official mid-west pageant on Klan-kraft, Sept. 7 and 8. It was announced Tuesday.

The Imperial Wizard and his staff from Atlanta, Ga., will attend the ceremonies and Klan bands from Indianapolis, Forest City and Chicago will entertain the Klansmen.

Rockford membership has mounted to 3,000, it was announced, and these will act as hosts to 16,000 to 18,000 members from Chicago. The committee which has called hotel men into conference Tuesday morning to discuss ways to accommodate the hordes of Klansmen.

The pageant site has not yet been selected, but it will be immediately outside the city limits, it was stated. Speaking and musical entertainment will be offered in the afternoon of the great gathering, and in the evening there will be a Klan pageant and a display of fireworks.

HENRY TRAXLER IS
OF JANESEVILLE(Continued from Page 1.)
the position which he will leave to come to Janesville have gained wide recognition for him and the success of city management.

Good Record in Cincinnati.

As city manager, Mr. Traxler has been city clerk; city engineer, superintendent of water works, streets, cemetery and head of the fire and police departments. He has placed the city on sound financial basis, secured a substantial reduction in taxes and a highly satisfactory service to the public.

This engineer-manager points with pride to the improvements which he engineered which include the new water works system, a new city hall and armory building, necessary storm and sanitary sewers four miles of new pavements, remodeled and rebuilt fire station. Standardized water meters and scales the water department on a firm basis were other achievements of the city under his direction.

In Result-Getter.

During Mr. Traxler's four years' service to Clarinda, a new cemetery was purchased and perpetual maintenance introduced. The fire department and equipment has been organized. Last year the fire department amounted to but $5,000 of fire.

The state auditor's department recognized the efficient bookkeeping system used by Mr. Traxler when in its annual report it stated: "The records of the city manager's office were found complete and all transactions easily accessible."

Clarinda is noted in Iowa for its fine appearance, and one of the reasons is that Manager Traxler has kept the streets and city clean at all times during the improvement in repair.

The little Iowa city pays its bills as it goes along but the balance in the treasury has steadily increased in the four years, from $10,000 to some $20,000.

In these days of steadily mounting taxes and large bond issues the situation is regarded in Iowa as amazing. The chemicals company is because of Henry Traxler and the latter says its city management.

No Tax Increases.

In the four years, Mr. Traxler has had no tax increases and a bond was issued for new improvements and payment in cash has been made for everything. When he started his work the balance in the treasury was $10,000 and on February 1, 1923 it was $40,000. Taxes haven't shot to the sky either. Clarinda's tax levy is 42 mills on a low valuation. The property tax is raised by half a mill than it was in 1916. It would be even less had not a two mill tax for the support of the municipal band been levied.

Three Biggest Projects.

Outside of the businesslike efficiency with which the government has been run, the three projects in Clarinda are Mr. Traxler's work are the waterworks, armory and cemetery, the three municipally owned institutions.

The water works has been placed all on a self supporting basis, meets all overhead expense, cost of operating and improvements, required by law part of the water rates.

In Clarinda are considerably lower than in other cities the same size and the balances in the waterworks is growing. There was $20,000 in the fund in April, 1918. Now there is more than $10,000.

An example of real business shrewdness is the new Clarinda band. It paid $15,000 for the building and spent an additional $5,000 in improvements so that it now houses the city offices, auditorium and band room. The auditorium is reserved for public affairs at no more expense than the actual cost of operation. Rentals on parts of the building not used by the city bring $1,000 yearly to the city treasury which is more than meets all charges against it.

Acted as City Engineer.

Birchwood cemetery was brought by the city for $10,000 and nearly $4,000 has been paid upon the cost. The cemetery is self supporting and more than $10,000 has accumulated in the permanent maintenance fund.

Besides doing the multitudinous jobs required in the ordinary routine of his work, Mr. Traxler has gone to great lengths to auction on two lots, thereby saving the city $7,500. These were the construction of the waterworks and the $100,000 paving program in 1918.

Janesville city manager law differs somewhat from that of Wisconsin and Clarinda has a mayor as well as a city manager. Mr. Traxler gives Mr. Traxler all the credit for the wonders performed in Clarinda.

In a recent interview published in the Omaha, Neb., "Morning Star," that the city manager plan can rectify the so-called failure of municipal ownership if it can do this alone, it is worth a trial.

Traxler's Attitude.

Speaking of the situation in Clarinda, he said:

"It's the city manager plan that wins for me. The city manager plan is beyond the experimental stage. To say that this plan means a reduction in taxes is perhaps going too far. But the tax rates promised for every dollar expended you get a dollar's worth of service, and it almost invariably follows that you get a dollar's worth of service in an efficient business. The cost is less. This plan also promises that any obligation due the municipality will be meted out, that all franchises will be honored and that all bills due the city will be collected. It also promises business-like records and good methods of accounting. The city manager does not have to burden his mind with the problem of whether a democratic town means more pavement, or a republican town more roads. The city manager plan can rectify the driving stakes to a socialist or a prohibitionist. His only thought is to serve the public through the municipality and make the city meet the value received for what it buys, be it labor or machinery."

In Community Worker.

Mr. Traxler says that he has been city manager of Clarinda for the last four years and they still want him to remain.

"My relations have always been pleasant but I feel that I have reached the limit of what a town of this size can afford to pay and I know that I can find better goods in Janesville," says Mr. Traxler.

Newspaper stories of his work in Clarinda say "he fits into every phase
